connected with the lower chords by means of the connecting pin spoken of before and with the upper chords by pins passing through the chords and eyes in these pieces. The floor beams rest on the upper chords and have a top and vertical plate with angle-irons binding them together. There is no bottom plate. The angle-irons at the bottom of the vertical plate answering the same purpose. The lower lateral